Elmira Maksudova

Tech Recruiter EMEA @ Samsara Curious Minds & Great Missions!
#hiring
Swindon, England, United Kingdom

Summary

If you're a senior engineer who's quietly wondering whether there's something more interesting out there - I'm probably already thinking about you. I recruit software engineers across EMEA for Samsara: a company building technology that keeps the world's physical infrastructure moving. Think fleets, industrial operations, and critical logistics - all running on hardware and software that engineers here actually get to own end-to-end. It's one of those rare places where the technical complexity is real, the mission isn't a marketing line, and the compensation reflects both. Over the last three years I've helped scale Samsara's EMEA engineering organisation significantly - placing engineers across Software, AI/ML, Security, Sales Engineering, and Support - and I've learned exactly what makes a great match here, and what doesn't. I'll always be straight with you about both. I'm not here to send you a generic message and ghost you after a screening call. If I reach out, it's because I've looked at your background properly and I think there's a genuine conversation worth having. Even if the timing isn't right, I'm happy to talk. The best relationships I have with candidates started years before they were ready to move. Drop me a message, or reach me at elmira.maksudova@samsara.com.
